Conservation Café

Property managers, planners, municipal officials, naturalists, environmentalists, students and the public are invited to discover the current research about these animals' movements and behavior.

"Mapping Human-Coyote Interaction in Westchester: How backyard coyote observations can lead to a more peaceful coexistence"
- Mark Weckel, Director of Research and Land Management, Mianus River Gorge Preserve

"New York Suburban Coyote Study: What we've Learned" - Dan Bogan, field research leader of the NY Urban/Suburban Coyote Study, a NYSDEC-funded project carried out in four Westchester municipalities.

Moderator is Jeff Main of the Westchester County Parks conservation division.

A question-and-answer session will be included. Carpooling is encouraged. Coffee will be served. Please bring your own mug.

Conversations on Conservation (CoC) and Conservation Café programs provide a forum for dialogue about current environmental issues and challenges.

Admission is free; reservations are requested; please call (914) 864-7326 by Wednesday, September 22 to reserve a seat and for directions.
